WEST POINT IN THE FULL PLUSH OF THE SEA-SON-FLIBTATION AND JOLLIFICATION-BEIL-LIANT LIGHT ARTILLERY DRILL BY . THE CADETS-PERTINENT QUESTION BY A GRAD-

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 5, 1877. Everything here is now full of life and gayety. The hotels are filled with gueste, many of them being relations or friends of the cadets, come to witness the annual examinations and bear off with them the happy cadets who shall graduate. Walks, talks, drives rides, reviews, firtation and general joilification within the limits of becoming mirth are the order of is nothing to mar the pleasures of the occasion.

BOARD OF VISITORS.

The sub-committees into which the Board of Visitors was divided have as yet done but little, as all the gentlemen attended the examination of the first class

THE COLORED CADET.

Flipper, the colored cadet from South Carolina, was up this afterneon and acquitted himself remarkably well. Some time since he was accommended for a higher grade than the one he holds, and his performance to-day gained him a still higher standing in the meeting of the Board this afternoon, "to have apaball be to investigate the condition of the cadets; to see whether they use tobacco or cadets: to see whether they use tobacco or anything of that kind," and the reverend gentleman knocked the ashes from the end of his cigar, and peered at the other august members through the clouds of smoke which one and all were busily engaged in puffling. A smile illuminated the faces of the gentlemen, but no objection was made, and the committee was appointed, to consist of Mr. Richardson himself and Co onel McCaimont, of Pennsylvania.

Richardson himself and Co onel McCaimont, of Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of visitors from adjacent towns were attracted to the Point this evening by the announcement that the light artillery drill would be held. This is considered one of the most beautiful or military exhibitions, and it was conducted by Colonel Alexander Piper in dashing style. Six rifled guns of three-inch bore were manpulated each by a section of ten cadets. Four spirited horses were attached to each gun and each caisson. At a signal from the bugle the cadets sprang upon their pieces, and those who acted as officers leaped to their saddles as nimbly as circus riders. Another blast, and the guidon, or standard pearer, rode to the end of the line at a gallop and took ais place at the head of the column into which the battery formed in a twinkling. When half the parade ground was skirted in that way another call upon the bugle sent them off at a lively tree in platoons.

Alpha Movements.

The entire drill was gone through without a single mishap or accident, much to the wonder of the uninitiated, at least, for in the execution of the various movements, wheeling right and left, limbering and unlimbering, and firing, here, there and everywhere, with the rapidity of lightning, the cadete seemed to become rockless in their enthusiasm and leaped off and on the carriages while going at a gallop. The rapidity with which the pieces were discharged excited the admiration of every one.

"Splendid! splendid!" exclaimed General Maxey as the battery took ground to the rear, turned the muziles of the guns in one direction after another and fired are a flash.

"All," he added, "I have seen that kind of drill

"Splendid! splendid!" exclaimed General Maxoy as the battery took ground to the rear, turned the muscles of the guns in one direction after another and fired ago a flash.

"Ah," he added, "I have seen that kind of drill ander very different circumstances."

"So have I," replied Bishop Quintard, who stood by his side. "I saw some pretty hot work of that kind at the battle of Perryville."

And talking of that reminds me of a curious circumstance at that battle. I stood upon a mound between the Confederate artillery, under command of Captain William W. Cairnes, on my right, and the Union puss commanded by Colonel Charles C. Parsons on my felt. Alterward, when I became Bishop of Tenegasec, the first person I confirmed was Captain Cairnes, and I ordanied Colonel Parsons, who gave up he military life, as a priest of the Episcopal Church."

THE COMMISSARIAT.

The Committee on Commissariat and Mess reported lought that they had inspected these departments and found everything doserving of high praise. As already stated in the Herald, the quality of the food and supplies has very much improved under the management of Lieutenant Mills, and their cost has been materially reduced.

CHEAT WASHING.

The laundry interested the committee very much. It is filled up with steam apparatus manipulated by hired men and women. The cost of washing a pair of the white linen trousers worn by cadets, while a shirt is laundried for one cent.

FIXANCIAL "PROSPECTS.

Mady of the graduating cadets were troubled about their financial prospects. Congress not having passed the Army Appropriation bill they will get no pay while off on furlough after graduating, and as some of them are not burdened with this world's goods they do not know what they shall do. There probably never will be a time in their lives when they will go de money so much as they do at presont, because they are for the most part without civilian clothing, without trunks or any of the thousand and cre things that a man in ordinary life needs. To supply a graduate with an outfi

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

Aimee and Alice Oates are in Boston this week.

The manner in which Thomas' band renders Wagne music, especially the "Death of Siegiried," is said by a Western critic to be "like a revolation from a futuristic standpoint." Mr. Vincent Hogan, principal baritone at the Church of St. Charles Borromeo, Brooklyn, will give his first grand concert to-night in the church edifica, corner Clinton and Pierrepont streets, in that city.

Miss Cary has just been the recipient in Cincinnati of a testimonial in the form of a concert, which one of the papers describes as the most brilliant tribute ever part to an artist there. Socially, florally, financially and artistically it was a success.

At Gilmore's Garden last night, Miss Julia Rivé performed, to an appreciative audience, the Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 2, by Langt. Galimberti, who has shown much versatility of musical talent, will shortly add to her repertoire "Pretty as a Picture." Thursday at this garden will hereafter be the classical night.

The arrangements for the Sixth Triennial Handel Festival at the Crystal Palace, London, this month are tomplete. The solouts are Mme. Adelina Patti, Mile, Albani, Miss Edith Wynne, Mme. Lommens-Sherrington, Mine. Patey, Mr. Vernon Rigby, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Signor Foli, Herr Henschel and Mr. Santley. Mr. W. T. Best and Mr. Willing will be organists, and Sir Michael Costa will coming musical lestival of the North American Saengerbund, which is to open July 9 and continue for one week. There will be a chorus of 1,200 voices, assisted by an orchestra of 100 men, and the soloists will be Mme. Pappenheim, Miss Reinman, Miss Louise Rollwagen and Mr. Frank Remmertz. The Choral Union of Cincinnati and other singing societies from there, Chicago, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and other prominent points participate in the concerts.

A LITERARY ENTERTAINMENT.

A literary and social entertainment, improperly (7) announced as a "woman's rights meeting," was held last evening at the residence of Dr. W. W. Myers, Ninth street and University place. Mr. Peter Cooper presided at a similar meeting at the place two weeks ago, when the question of finance ounded rumor that he would be present last evening. The number of guests was about twenty, the gentler sex largely predominating. The part of hostess was played with great success by Miss Caroline Biodgett, who had prepared a paper on the "Woman" question, but withdrew it in favor of Dr. Myera. The Doctor consequently read a long and laboriously prepared address on the same subject, taking the ground that women should confine themselves acticatively to household duties. Two elderly gentlemen, inding that he was on the right track, leil asleep and slumbered peacefully still aroused by a prolonged round of applause which announced the conclusion of the address. A very pretty young married lady read, with a most charming accent, a short paper on the opposite side of the question, at first provoking the resentment and them the sleep of an aged male anditor, who, when Prolessor Headley recited Hans Breitmann's version of "Sherman's March to the Sea," again relapsed into a state of unconsciousness. Miss Arabelias Root, the well known soprano, favored the company with several ballads in her oest manner, and Prolessor Headley recited one or two more humorous peeces. The number of guests was about twenty, the gentler rooms of the Xavier Union, No. 20 West Twentyseventh street. The rooms were thronged. The invitations were issued by the Catholic Union, Circle of New York, for the celebration of the Episcopal Jubilce of Pope Pius IX., for which purpose Xavier Union had tendered the use of their rooms. About eight o'clock Cardinal McCloskey was warmly welcomed.

THE CARDINAL'S ADDRESS.

The Cardinal affectionately greeted the members of the Union and their guests. He congratulated the the Union and their guests. He congratulated the Xavier Union on its growth and prosperity, and then referred to the demonstrations of Sunday last throughout the world as unequalled in the history of the Church. Referring to the number of Catholics in Rome at present he said that while those from this country were but few owing to the distance and the hard times, yet the Catholics of this country were second to none in devotion to His Holiness. This love for the Holy Father was a bond of union between Catholics all over the world. The Holy Father's life was undoubtedly prelonged beyond the years of St. Peter for a definite purpose, as at any time during the last five years had his death occurred the trials the church would have been loreed to undergo would have been very severe, and possibly such as to have inflicted great injury upon her. Even though Puss IX, should die in the next lew years and his death, of course, owing to his advanced age, must be in the near future, still Catholics should have no lear but that his successor would be guided by the same unerring hand and his efforts be crowned with success.

The Cardinal's remarks were warmly greeted. He

ART NOTES.

Mr. Augustus St. Gaudens, the sculptor, sails to-day (Wednesday) for Europe in the Abyssinia, Mr. St. Gaudens can hardly be called one of our most promising young sculptors, for his actual performance has not only given him a high reputation with those whose good opinion is best worth having; but has been the means of bringing to him a number of important orders for work which he intends to execute in Paris. Among his commissions are a life sized statue of Admiral Farragut, ordered by an association of gentiemen in this city, and a life an association of gentlemen in this city, and a life size statue of Robert Richard Randall, the founder of the Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island.

Duveneck's portrait of Charles Dudley Warher, which attracted so much attention in the recent Academy Exhibition, will, through Mr. Warner's courtesy, be placed on exhibition at the Knoedler gallery. It was hung rather high at the Academy and many artists and others have expressed a desire to got a nearer view. We believe that this is the most important portrait head that Mr. Duveneck has yet made.
